In Morrell Entertains the Senate by Discussing Silver Coinage—Calling for Correspondence on the Chinese Treaty-Increasing the Pensions of Widows, Etc.

WASHINGTON, January 20.—In the senate a resolution was offered by Mitchell, of Oregon, for reference to the committee on foreign re-lations, and was so referred, calling on the secretary of the state for copies of all correspendence between the United States govern-ment and the Chinese government since the omulgation of our treaty with China, having reference to the enforcement of treaty pro-

Resolution to pay Judge Underwood, of Virginia in contesting seat in senate, which resolution had lain over since the special session of the senate, was laid before the senate, and on objections by Allison to its present consideraion, it went over.

Mr. Morrill addressed the senate on the ver question. He premised with the re-k that the elab rate speech of the senator om Kentucky, Mr. Beck, seemed to throw burden of a rejoinder on the friends of the dministration.

"I do not mean," he continued, "to en-Anch upon privileges which so many democratic senators appear eager to enjoy, of com ing to the rescue of the president and the secretary of the treasury, against the rather cruel attack made upon a cardinal measure of the administration, as I know the fate of those who venture to interfere with family quarrels; but this measure, by which silver might be maintained on a par with gold, so worthy of all acceptation, I fear will not have—after the hot demonstration of the recognized leader of his party in the senate against it—that unanimous support to which it may be fairly entitled. In the first place, let me say, that there are no parties, so far as I know, in the senate or out of it, that propose or that have any wish to demonetize silver. To charge otherwise is a baseless assumption and unworthy of the arena of fair debate. Everybody it willing, nay, anxious to keep as much of silver in circulation as can be done and keep it at the same time at par with our gold coinage. ing to the rescue of the president and the se silver in circulation as can be done and keep it at the same time at par with our gold coinage. The only hostility to silver arises from what seems to be the fixed and passionate purpose on the part of some of its advocates to promote such an excess of silver coinage as will drive gold coinage out of the country and leave our vast trade of commerce based upon silver only. In reaching this position of silver monometalism, it is impossible to be blind to the disastrous contraction of the circulating medium of the country that would at once occur, for when the moment arrives for gold to command a premium it will all be held as a commodity for sale and not for circulation, as small as five per cent premium being as moductive of universal hoarding as twenty—or per cent and no possible advantage to our people could be expected from following the lame and feeble example of India or Mexico in utilizing a silver currency only."

Mr. Morrill insisted that there was no war

Ar. Morrill insisted that there was no war soon silver, but that in substance and effect a pration of war had been made on gold by the leader of the democratic party in the senator from Kentucky had evidenced in delivering in the senator had been to senate his antagonism to the president and the secretary of the treasury, it seemed to Mr. Morrill that the senator had been for a mement under the delusion that he was still belaboring with a lefthanded compliment, some republican, president and secretary, but Mr. Morrill could look on with composure, confident as he was, of "the survival of the fittest."

THE DAY IN THE HOUSE.

An Increased Pension Bill Under Discus

WASHINGTON, January 20.—In the morning hour in the house, Matson, of Indiana, on be-half of the committee on invalid pensions, called up the bill increasing the pensions of widows and dependent relatives of soldiers from $8 to $12 per month. Matson stated that the bill had received the unanimous approval of the committee. A very careful estimate of the committee. A very careful estimate made less than two years ago by a gentleman who was thoroughly familiar with the subject, showed that additional annual cost to the government by reason of the passage of this bill would amount to something over $500,000. The committee on invalid pensions was not in favor of every wild proposition of pension legislation that might be presented to it, but he did not think that there would be any opposition to think that there would be any opposition to the fair measure which was now reported. Mr. Browne, of Indiana, warmly favored the bill, and desired to offer no amendment to it which might endanger its passage, but he had prepared an amendment repeating the limitation clause of the arrears of pension act, which he hoped the gentleman would be willing to rote for.

Mr. Grosvenor, of Ohio, while heartily in the for of Mr. Browne's proposition announced with intention of voting against it for fear that it might impede the passage of the bill.

Speeches for and against the bill and its collateral issues were made by Mr. Bragg of Wisconsin; Steele, of Indiana; Henderson, of Iowa; Waiford, of Kentucky. Mr. Walford earnestly supported the bill, but while he was in the middle of his speech, the morning hour expired.

Mr. Morrison moved that the house adjourn e house voted the motion down, and on a of Mr. Matson, went into the commit-but the house voted the motion down, and on motion of Mr. Matson, went into the committee of the whole, the purpose being to continue scussion on the pension bill.

The first bill on the calendar, however, was the senate bill for the purchase of the old pronce exchange in New York city, and Mr. Symes, of Colorado, receiving recognition of the chair, stated that that was the precise bill he wished to talk about and proceeded to deliver a speech in opposition to the suspension of the silver dollar coinage.

In concluding his speech Mr. Symes warned the house that the demonetalism of silver would create a flat money party in this country, compared with which the greenback party from the close of the war to 1879 was small and insignificant.

AMONG THE COMMITTEES.

The Inquiry into the Norfolk Navy Yard Matter-Other Matters. Washington, January 20.—The Boutelle resolution of inquiry relative to the alleged conduct of the commandant at Norfolk navy yard, came up for consideration before the house committee on naval affairs today.

Mr. He witt proposed to amend the resolution so as to inquire whether honorably discharged coldiers and sulter of the United States have had been obliterated and honorably discharged soldiers and sailors of the United States have at any time been dismissed from Norfolk navy yard, and also to request the transmission to the house of copies of all correspondence in relation to details and changes made by the secretary of the navy or his immediate predecessors in the Norfolk navy yard or in the lighthouse district in which the yard is situated.

lighthouse district in which the yard is situated.

The amendment was adopted without discussion and the resolution, as amended, ordered to be reported to the house.

The house committee on coinage today postponed until the next meeting the consideration of all bills relating to the coinage of the silver dollar. The committee will then begin the discussion of a different phase of the question and dispose of them as rapidly as the importance of the question will allow. It was the general understanding of the committee that the bill introduced by Mr. Bland to repeal that portion of the act of June 9, 1879, providing for the exchange and redemption of subsidiary coins for lawful money, should be reported favorably. Final action, however, was not taken, as the committee thought it might lead to a premature opening of the silver question in the house. All bills relating to the trade dollar were referred to a sub-committee, consisting of Representatives Lanham, McCrary and James.

The house committee on reform civil service

The house committee on reform civil service The house committee on reform civil service today unanimously instructed Representative Pulitzer to report adversely on the bill introduced by Representative Seney, of Ohio, for the repeal of the civil service law.

A sub-committee consisting of Representatives Clements, Pulitzer and Spooner, of Rhode Island, was appointed to consider all bills relating to the repeal of tenure of the office act.

lating to the repeal of tenure of the office act. WASHINGTON, January 20.—The committee on rivers and harbors today heard arguments by the delegates from the western waterway improvement conventions. Addresses were made by Representative Durnell, of Minnesota, from the St. Paul convention, touching the improvements in the waters of the upper Mississippi and Missouri valleys, W. H. Miller, of the Kansas city convention on the Missouri river and Colonel vention on the Missouri river, and Colonel George L. Wright, of Missouri, and Colonel J. D. Benton, of Dakota, on the western waterways in general. The session of the committee on Friday will be devoted to the hearing of other gentlemen on the same subjects.

THE CONSCIENCE FUND.

$2,500 Received from a Conscience-Stricken Individual.

Washington, January 20.—The secretary of the treasury has received in his regular mail today a letter postmarked New York, containing $2,500 in United States notes of large denominations, all of which were cut in two with small pieces removed from the inside edges. The word "cancelled" was written in juke gross the face of the notes. The envelope edges. The word "cancelled" was written in ink across the face of the notes. The envelope also contained a note which read as follows: "Here are $2,500 United States bills, mutilated so asto insure the government's getting the money. Whatsoever man sows that shall be reap. I have sowed wind and am reaping the whirlwind. This is next to the final payment due. God grant me speedy release."

[Signed.] "Conscience."

It is believed that this money was sent by the person who recently ferwarded a $500 bill in two installments to be placed to the credit of "Conscience."

Relieving the Commissioner of Agriculture. WASHINGTON, January 20 .- The house committee on agriculture today agreed to report favorably a bill authorizing the transfer of a portion of money appropriated for the labora-tory division of the agricultural department, to the seed division of the department. This bill is really for the relief of the commission of agriculture. The employes in the seed division were paid out of the appropriation for the laboratory division by the direction of General Carmen, who, at that time, was acting commis sioner in the absence of Commissioner Cole man. Comptroller Durham disallowed th accounts on the ground that the transfer of the appropriation was illegal. Forty-five delegates were present today, representing trade organizations north and west, but none from the south. Resolutions were adorted forement the Lorgell. Resolutions were adopted favoring the Lowell bankruptcy bill and subsides to American vessels in the foreign trade.

Photographs as Printed Matter.

WASHINGTON, January 20 .- The postmastergeneral has decided that photographs come under the designation of printed matter, and are, therefore, to be rated as third class matter, instead of being in the fourth class and rated s merchandise, as has heretofore been the case, Under this ruling photographs can now be sent through the mails by the payment of one cent for two ounces, instead of one cent an ounce.

THE CINCINNATI FRAUDS.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, January 20.—It is pretty well understood here that A. P. Butterfield, the only democratic member from Hamilton county how holding his seat in the house, and county how holding his seat in the house, and whose right to his seat will be contested by Robert Harlan, of Cincinnati, will resign his seat and thus prevent an investigation. The friends of Mr. Butterfield claim that he is not desirous of assuming the cost of a contest, as he would probably be defeated in the end. Now that the senatorship has been decided the democrats are not at all furious in demanding searching investigations. In the event of Mr. Butterfield resigning his seat Governor Foraker, it is understood, will not accept it, but will insist upon the investigation being carried out. Should Mr. Butterfield establish his right to hold his place, and then insist, his resignation woul? be accepted. The senate committee on privileges and elections will begin an investigation during the week of the senatorial election in Hamilton county. The chairman, Mr. Van Cleaf, states that he has chairman, Mr. Van Cleaf, states that he has ample evidence to show that fraud was com-mitted by both parties.

THE MISSING HEAD.

THE LATEST FROM THE NASHVILLE HORROR

A Cincinnati Lady Claims That the Remains Are Those of a Montreal Cousin-No Clue to Identification Found in Nashvillee of a Montreal Cousin-No Clue to dentification Found in Nashville-Other Crimes of the Day, Etc.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., January 20 .- [Special.] The most persistent search by hundreds of people has failed to bring up the missing head to the mutilated body found Monday, and the interest has grown greater than ever, as the mystery still persists in remaining a mystery. Almost by daylight the crowds began to be-siege the undertaking establishment where the ghastly remains are, and all day lines of peo-ple passed in and out. Clue after clue to the dentity of the unknown was followed out to failure, and absolutely nothing is known now that was not known when the remains were first found. One man, of much experience, M. S. Combs, undertaker, advocates the theory that the remains are those of a cadaver brought by some ignorant body snatcher to the medical college, cut up for easier carrying and rejected by the college, ex-cept the head, which alone could be used for dissection, and for which a dollar or two was paid. This would explain the absence of the head, and also the rope around the wrist, which was used in dragging the tody from the grave. Physicians who have seen the body disbelieve this, as the body is that of a healthy, muscular man, weighing about two hundred pounds, and the flesh does not show marks of disease. In Hell's half acre the belief is so general that the man was murdered by a woman, as to indicate positive knowledge somewhere, but the people are bound together in lawlessness so as to prevent the getting of any information. The common version is that a woman killed and robbed him on the night of January 9th, a bitter cold night, when shrieks were heard for half an hour near the scene of the discovfor half an hour near the scene of the discovery of the remains. All, however, is surmise. The matter will be investigated further. The coroner's jury still having no evidence took a further adjournment.

A close examination at midnight leads to the general belief that the head has been burned, as marks on one of the legs, at first believed to be caused by decay, proved to have been the result of fire. It is now believed that the the result of fire. It is now believed that the murderer chopped up the body with the idea of burning it, but after burning the head, and attempting to burn the leg, was forced to abandon his purpose, and taking the leg from the fire, buried the remaining portions, where they were found.

PERHAPS A CLUE.

CINCINNATI, January 20. - [Special.] - The Sun, of to-morrow, will give, relative to the mysterious headless body found at Nashville, an interview with Mrs. John E. Naylor, a very respectable lady of this city, who believes the re-mains are those of her cousin, Robert Martin, of Montreal.

"I remember," said she, "that Robert had Trememoer, said she, that Robert had the letters of his last name on his arm just as the papers say, with a dash between the last two letters in place of a letter 'I.' I also remember distinctly that he also had the Masonian while we it. There were other letters but member distinctly that he also had the Masonice emblem on it. There were other letters, but I don't remember them. Ht was also fond of caid playing, and nearly always had a pack in his pocket. He was a plumber by trade, and of roving disposition; as likely to be in Nashville as any place else. Saw him last in Detroit about two years ago. About three years ago his brother John was murdered in Denver, and it was some time before his family discovered his identity. Both FOUND HER HUSBAND DEAD. The Strange Suicide of a Well to Do New Jerseyman.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., January 20.—D. W. Lee, a well to do resident of Ridgewood road, South range, committed suicide hooting himself through the head. He had been an in-valid for several years, suffering from kidney and liver troubles, which had compelled him to give up his business in this city.

He seemed in good spirits and chatted pleas-ntly with his wife about household affairs. About eleven o'clock Mrs. Lee was driven to the village to do some shopping. Her husband kissed her affectionately before her departuae and returned to his study whistling a favorite air. An hour afterward a pistel shot was heard, and a servant, who burst open the door, found that Mr. Lee had shot himself through the brain.

The servant had not recovered from the shock when carriage wheels were heard on the gravel drive, and then Mrs. Lee, flushed from her ride in the bracing mountain air and with a smile on her face to greet her husband, came on the threshold of the study. At her feet lay the corpse of her husband. With a scream she threw herself across the body. The servants hurried to her aid and found that she had sweened away.

Six months ago the house was entered by burglars and $3,000 worth of jewelry was stolen. The burglary caused Mr. Lee a severe nervous shock, which, together with his physical ailments, are supposed to have affected his mind. No other cause for the suicide is known.

Mr. Lee was forty-five years old. Mr. Lee was forty-five years old, Spicide of a Prisoner.

Boston, January 20.—Edwin J. Hobbs, of this city, was convicted in the superior court last June of mixing arsenic with meal, with intent to kill Lilian C. Cram and Elizabeth A. Cram. At the trial exceptions were taken by the defendent, all of which have been over ruled by the supreme court. The case was then put down for sentence. Last Friday Hobbs was allowed to shave himself, and he then cut his throat with the razor. He died Monday. The suicide was kept secret until today.

A Murderer Hung.

COEK, January 20.—William Sheehan, convicted on December 19 of the murder of his mother, sister and brother, at Castle Tour-rache, in 1877, was hanged here today. The condemned man became greatly agitated as the hour for his execution drew near, and was so weak that he had to be assisted to the scaffold. He responded feebly to the prayers of the priest, and was trembling violently when placed under the gallows. He died almost instantly, his neck being broken by the Four Rufflans Killed.

GAINESVILLE, Tex., January 20.—A party of nine cowboys visited the town of Barlington, several miles north of here, last night. After becoming crazed with liquor, they terrorized the population, firing into the windows and acting like savages. Deputy Sheriff Coke, with a posse, about daylight ran the ruffians out of town, killing four of them and five horses in a running fight.

The young woman had been employed in Rodarmour's office for about a year and a half. Acting on my advice, she has left Rodarmour's employ." The latter is a handsome man of thirty-five, with blue eyes and a blonde mustache. He said that his wife was much worried over the affair. Four years ago they joined the church. Miss Woolsey was then in the choir. His wife becoming an invalid, Miss Woolsey frequently visited her. She and Rodarmour became fast friends and frequently took walks together, but desisted upon hearing uncomplimentary but desisted upon hearing uncomplimentary remarks made by friends and neighbors. THE LATEST TRADE.

Large Coal Mines Bought by a Party of Northern Capitalists.

BIEMINGHAM, Ala, January 20.—[Special.] A few days ago Mr. Henry F. De Bardeleben, the pioneer southern iron master, quietly began buying up some choice city property. He is a quiet mover, covering up his tracks well, When your correspondent heard that he was buying city real estate he knew the iron and coal king had a big deal on hand, but not until tonight was he enabled to call the turn. The latter part of lest week a party of capitalists from Philadelphia landed at the little station on the Georgia Pacific, a few miles cast on the Georgia Pacific, a few miles east of here, called Henryellen. Henryellen is the name of the immense coal mines just opened by Mr. DeBardeleber, the name being a com-bination of his own and his wife's first name. The capitalists were accompanied by Edward V. Denvilliers, an expert mining engineer from Philadelphia, who came to inspect the mines for the capitalists. Several days were spent at the mines, and it is understood a perfect understanding was arrived at between the parties, whereby the mines would change hands, and that the purchasers would lay down at once rails on the grade from this city to the mines, and that the syndicate would erect a furnace in this city. In this big trade big there was also included a large amount of iron lands lying near Trussville, on the Alabama Great Southern road, ten miles above here. Jacob Reese, owner of "the Basic pro for making steel, returned to Pittsburg t It is understood Colonel Enoch Ensler, pres ident of the Pratt coal and iron company bought the sole right to make steel under this process in Jefferson county, and took an option on the right for the entire state. A New Competitor for Eastern Business

CHICAGO, January 20.-A morning paper says: The Illinois Central railway is in the field as a competitor for eastern business, de-livering its freight to the Big Four and Chesa-peake and Ohio. Within the last two days a arge amount of corn has been secured and shipped from Chicago by this new route, and there are apprehensions that the movement in that direction will grow into formidable proportions. The pool lines are considerably exercised at this movement, as it opens an outlet that cannot be controlled either at Chicago or on the seaboard. A Fair Association Liquidates. NewBerry, S. C., January 20.—[Special.]

LONDON, January 20.—The queen arrived in London today from Windsor castle. She drove from the railway station to Buckingham palace in an open carriage and received an ovation along the route. Her majesty, who is in ex-cellent health, will open parliament in person

The royal procession tomorrow, on the occa-sion of the opening of parliament, will include seven state carriages. The carriage occupied by the queen will be drawn by eight cream colored horses. Her majesty will be escorted by the Household cavalry. The royal party will leave Buckingham palace at 1:30 p. m. The route will be along Mall, past St. James park and the Horse Guards to White-hall; then through Parliament street to the houses of parliament. The queen will alight at the posse entrance to the house of lords. The guards of honor and troops will be stationed all along the route. A salute of twenty-one guns will be fired on the arrival of ber majesty at Westminster. The queen will be attended by pursivants, her-alds, knight of arms, gentlemen at arms, yeomen, pages, grooms, etc., according to the custom of mediaval times. In the house of lords the queen will sit on the throne, the prince of Wales on the right hand, with the princes of Wales. Lord Salisbury, lord chancelroy, will read the speech.

The deputation of loyalist from Ulster today waited on the marquis of Hartington, war secretary under Gladstone. They pointed out that in Ireland the legal power of the queen's writ does not shine outside of Ulster, and said they feared that the tearrain existing in the they feared that the terrorism existing in the south of Ireland would extend to Ulster unless it was checked.

Lord Hartington replied that in a few hours they would know the intention of the govern-ment respecting the Irish question, and that until then he would refrain from defining his policy regarding the matter. The marquis ad-vised the deputation to do their utmost to enlist the sympathy of the English people in their

The Queen's Speech.

London, January 20.—The queen's speech was read at the ministerial dinner today. Referring to Ireland, the speech says, in substance, that although in some respects there are favorable indications of progress toward order in that country, yet at present Ireland is disturbed by an increasing tendency to re-order in that country, yet at present Ireland is disturbed by an increasing tendency to resort to unlawful practices and a disposition to set the law at naught. The government, therefore, recognizes its duty to take energetic steps to enforce law in order to provide security for life and property, and to maintain in its fullest meaning the integrity of the union, and the measures necessary to secure these ends will be submitted to parliament. The speech further promises a local government measure for England, to be followed by similar measures for Scotland and Ireland; and a bill to cheapen for Scotland and Ireland, and a bill to cheapen and facilitate the transfer of land. It refers to the "hopeful prospects" of the Egyptian com-mission establishing a stable government in Egypt; says that the question of annexing Burmah will not be decided until Lord Dufferin reports on the subject, but that the depo-sition of Thebaw is necessary; congratulates parliament on the peaceful foreign relations of Great Britain; trusts that peace will be maintained in the Balkans through the self control of all the powers interested, and con-cludes by expressing the hope that the new parliament will follow the great traditions of ormer parliaments.

At the central station at Birkenhead his royal highness was presented with an address by the inhabitants of that city. The Mersey Tunnel railway company had provided accommodations for a great number of persons within the station, and the entire space was filled with prominent people. All the prominent buildings in Liverpool were handsomely decorated with flags and bunting. A loyal address was also presented to the prince of Wales by the municipal officials of Liverpool. The royal party entered a special train at Bock Ferry, between Chester and Birkenhead, and proceeded through and Birkenhead, and proceeded through tunnel. The prince and his sons received an ovation.

HUNGARIAN ANGER. Iwo Sensational Speeches Delivered in the

Hungarian Parliament

Hungarian Parliament.

PESTH, January 20.—Two exciting speeches were delivered in the Hungarian parliament yesterday. One was by Herr Sorvath, who, in alluding to the race dissension prevailing throughout Austria-Hungary, said: "The dual constitution of 1876 was founded on the idea that the German element was preponderant in Austria, but now the dominant forces in Austria are the Slavs. The cohesion of the monarchy is gone. Between the Slavs and the Hungarians there are no affinities. It is important that the federalist policy now pursued by Austria should not be pushed to such a point as to keep the two halves of the monarchy estranged, leading to a dissolution of the empire. He concluded by quoting the words of Baron Joseph Eatvos, a friend of Vossuth, and who protected the latter from the attacks of the conservatives. "If ever he was compelled to choose between Germanism and Slavism, he would pronounce in favor of the former." The other member whose remarks caused excitement, was Herr Izalic, president of the supreme court. He, in the course of the debate on the budget, declared that an official, who was a friend of the Hungarian prime minister, was squandering one-third of the revenues of Hungary. He was immediately asked to name the official. He refused, however, unless an official inquiry was instituted. This produced an uproar, and cries of "name" arose from all parts of the chamber. He remained obdurate and declined to give the name of the official.

ROMANCE OF AN ESTATE.

Colored Workmen Find that They are Heirs to an Immense Estate.

PHILADELPHIA, January 20.—James A. Wright, a colored workingman, residing at No. 1,028 Ivy street, this city, and two near relatives, Mrs. Ellen Ann Johnson and Mrs. Jane Tripp, have just discovered, as they believe, that they are entitled to part of an estate in Baltimore, valued at $1,500,000, the history of which is quite romantic. Besides them there are six co-heirs and heiresses living in Maryland and the district of Columbia.

The matter of the claim dates back to the latter part of the last century, when the Chevalier D'Amiens, member of a rich and distinguished French house, settled in Baltimore for a time. He had in his service a mulatto house-keeper of great beauty named Rachel Stevenson, in whom he reposed great confidence. Previous to his sailing for his home in France he put all his property in her name, his purpose being, it is supposed, to get a stronger hold upon the estate, title to which could not vest in him by reason of his being an alien.

him by reason of his being an alien.

Rachel Stevenson sailed with the chevalier for France, but the vessel was lost, and neither the chevalier nor the woman was ever heard of again. The records show that letters of administration were granted to William Stevenson, a brether of Rachel, who claimed then to be the only heir. He died about thirty years ago on a farm near Baltimore. The present claimants are all grandnephews and nieces of Rachel Stevenson, and they contend that the original transfer to her was absolute, no trust of any sort being made. One of the properties, situated on Entaw street, near Barre, in Baltimore, was sold for non-payment of taxes, but the claimants say they are still in time to redeem it upon payment of the amount of taxes. the chevalier nor the woman was ever heard of

The Little Newark Children an Attractive Card in a Dime Museum.

New York, January 20.—Three of the dogbitten Newark children—little "Patsy" Reynolds, Austin Fitzgerald and Willie Lane—have been placed on exhibition at the Globe museum in the Bowery. They were perched up on a pedestal, with the champion fat woman on one side and a white silk haired man on the other. Crowds came to see them all day, and at night the museum was packed so full that the spectators could hardly get out. Professor Hickey gives the sightseers a complete history of the children from the time they were bitten by the dogs until they were brought to this city for exhibition. He also gives a scientific explanation of Pasteur's method of treatment, and said that hereafter the boys might be bitten by any number of dogs and that it would have no dangerous effects.

THE COST OF CONVERSIONS. A Minister's Statistics on the Per Capita Expense of Conversions

CHICAGO, January 20.-The Rev. J. O. Foster presented some statistics to the Chicago Meth-odist ministers in a paper on "Church Benevo-lence." Among other things it was shown that every conversion effected in the Rock River conference last year cost $431. This state-ment gave rise to animated discussion. The Rev. F. M. Bristol said that six prominent south side churches in this city, with a total member-ship of 2,000, expended $100,000 last year, and had just 100 converts. In other words, each convert cost $1,000. Dr. M. M. Parkhurst said that he could estimate the cost of raising hogs or calves, but was opposed to so much arithmetic when human souls were considered. A great part of the work of the church consisted of education and culture. The ministers ral Vilas for his action concerning a Sunday

CHEHALIS, W. T., January 20.—At about nine o'clock last night, three hoodlums went to a Chinese section house and ran the Chi-nese into the brush. When Section Foreman Ross attempted to protect the Chinese, the hoodlums drew their revolvers on him. The gang then proceeded to another section house, a mile south of Centralia, and drove the Chinese from there also. The Chinamen arrived here bareheaded and with only sandals on their feet. It was snowing hard at the time. They were half scared to death.

Become True. HARTFORD, Conn., January 20.-Daniel G. HARTFORD, Conn., January 20.—Daniel G. Sperry, of South Windsor, who early in December predicted his death in three weeks thereafter, died within a month of the date he predicted. He had already settled his business affairs and had bought a massive oak coffin, which he kept in his house. The failure of his prediction that he would pass wasy in December had no effect upon him other than to make him more depressed in spirits. He said nothing further regarding his presentiment, but it was evident to his friends that he had not abandoned; for he showed no interest in daily affairs or in the future. He was well advanced in years, but was in ordinary good health until his strange presentiment began to prey upon him.

MACON, COVINGTON AND THE CON STITUTION AT THE SHOVELS.

Action of the City Comeil-Breaking the Dirt-Burn Wants to Come In-Back to the Old Home -Personal and General Mention.

MACON, January 20 .- [Special.]-This morning a called meeting of the city council was held, a quorum being present. The report of a special committee appointed to investigate the Covington and Macon railroad matters was read and after some slight amendments was adopted. The report set that the city and railroad officials have agreed on what is known as route No. 3. of the surveyed lines. It intersects with the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia road near the street railroad gate at the park, and the city grants the right of way, thirty feet each way from the center of the track, and devote two blocks near the compress, on what is known as the city reserve, for the location of the shops. An annuity of $1,000 is to be paid for the privilege of crossing the river at the old Augusta railroad bridge, and certain provisos given the city's interests in the matter. The road will not touch the parlenclesure, but will run just far enough from the upper corner of it to give a roomy right of way.

BREAKING DIRT. At 3 p. m. several hundred persons congregated in the level grass field south of the park, and the center of the roadbed was worked out. Then the names of those participating in the ceremony of breaking first dirt, were called out as follows: Colonel L. F. Livingstone, president; B. W. Frobell, chief engineer; Captain L. W. Robert, assistant engineer; J. W Allen, agent of construction department of the Covington and Macon. S. R. Jaques, presi dent; J. H. Campbell, E. C. Greer, N. M. Rogers and A. B. Wiley, chief police; William A. Wiley, lieutenant of the police department, M. M. Folsom, of THE CONSTITUTION, and Dr. F. A. Walker. city physician, representing Jasper county.

Then the gentlemen were all ranged in line, and at 3:25 p. m. President Livingstone THREW THE FIRST SHOVELFUL of dirt on the line of the Covington and Macon railroad. The others followed, and quite a little ridge was soon thrown, and the president eried hands off. After the stiff hats and dignitaries stepped back, a score of railroad hands with brawny arms and muscular bodies grasped the shovels, and with a "yea ho!" the soft loamy earth went flying through the air and the work was begun.

Oysters and champagne for supper was then proposed, and the crowd adjourned.

A Meeting In East Macon.

Macox, January 20.—[Special.]—At the Knights of Labor meeting in East Macon last night, a good many questions were discussed. The leading spirit in his address, laying open the whys and wherefores of the mbeting, said that they wanted to do away with monopolies. For instance, they would have the franchises of all railroads annulled, and these great institutions placed in the leads, of the govern. stitutions placed in the hands of the govern-ment so that folks might ride where they wished in the same manner that a letter is now sent by mail. The banks were to be run on the same share and share a like plan.

NIPPED IN THE BUD. A Sensational Elopement Planned But is

Frustrated. GEIFFIN, Ga., January 20 .- [Special.]-A romantic and sensational marriage was nipped in the bud here yesterday. A bright and at-tractive little miss of fifteen years was sent here from a neighboring town several days ago to enter school. She was boarding with a relative and had not entered school. She had a sweetheart in the town where she lives and he soon followed her here. He made his in-tentions known to a friend of his who did not seem to sympathise with him, as he soon com-municated the fact to others and it was not long before the gentleman with whom the young lady boarded knew all the facts.

He put himself on guard and soon saw the ond lover prying around his premises. By a se watch he kept the young lady from see close watch he kept the young lady from see-ing her lover, and when the next train left for her home the gentleman escorted his young boader back to her father. On account of the young lady's age and in view of the fact that she may change her mind, it is best not to

Last week Judge Lampkin, of Lawrence-ille, issued three licenses for the same young lady to marry. One day a young man from Cates district dropped in and got his license.

The next day another called and wanted the necessary papers to marry the same young lady. The judge informed him that he was too late, as he had already issued license for another party. "That makes no difference," replied No. 2, "give me the papers." He was accommodated. The next day No. 1 returned and stated that he had lost his first "set," and nother. He got them and went his way rejoicing.

DEATHS IN GEORGIA.

The Death of Mrs. Hampton W. Howeil, in Duluth. DULUTH, Ga., January 20.—[Special.]—Mrs. Cynthia C. Howell, the wife of Hampton W. Howell, died yesterday evening at 7:15 o'clock at her home near this place, and will be buried temorrow morning at the cemetery in this

Mis. Howell was a most estimable lady, and ull who knew her were strongly attached to her. By her many Christian traits of character she made many friends, and great sorrow is felt in the community at her death. She and her husband were married about fifty years ago and have ever since lived in this neighborhood. She was a daughter of William Knox, who, when he lived, was a very prominent citizen of this county. She was related to the Strick-lands and Littles of this and Milton counties, and has many relatives throughout the state. She has always been a consistent member of the Methodist church and took great interest in church matters. She was a noble woman, and her death is mourned by the entire com-

The telegrams conveyed the information that although much work and been done, there was still a great deal to do before the track would be clear and the line open, and that the obstructions would not be out of the way before the end of the week. It seems that more dirt has fallen into the tunnel, and that this is the cause of the continued deals in opening the line. Mr. W. C. Dorris, one of the most prosperous farmers of Douglas county, has yet on hand his entire crop of cotton. He says he is waiting for a better price.

Of the prospect of the oat crop, the Albany News says; The universal verdict of the farmers is that the late fall season oats are killed, and that replanting will be includely necessary. Many oats were sown in oce Christmas. These will not be injured, as to yhad not begun to sprout. This extensive killing of the oat crop is a great drawback to the planters. Seed oats are scarce and the labor of replanting is expensive. We can make no suggestion, is expensive. We can make no suggestion, except to manure well those now being planted. Cotton seed or guano pay well on oats. It has been our experience that oats do better on land not previously ploughed. That is to say, unless the land on which they were sowed is manured, it were better, if replanting has to be done, to plant not on the same ground.

There are certain waters-such as those of the Dead sea, the Caspian and the Sea of Aral —which seem outlawed and banished from the world into solitudes remote from the eye of man. To this dreary list might fitly be added the Red Sea itself. Shut in between the Arabian deserts and the burning wastes of Eastern Africa, it is what the Nile is in its passage through the Eastern Soudan—a narrow isthmus of life between two great seas of death. History may glorify it as "one of the world's great highways of commerce," but it wears never-theless the brand of a gloomy and eternal des-olation, which neither the countless steamers that furrow its waters, nor the small native craft that swarm along its shores can do any-thing to relieve. Well, indeed, spoke the grim sastern proverb which I once heard from an old "Hakim" of Tunis: "Arab Harab" (the Arab is destruction).

It is only when one begins to near the land, however, that one appreciates in all its fullness that "eternal summer" about which the British poets of last century used to speak so rapturously, with their feet in hot water and a chronic cold in the head. Every sheet and stay of the rigging on the landward side is literally brown with sand, and each laboring breath that you draw seems to come straight from the you draw seems to come straight from the mouth of an oven, while your clothes cling to your heated skin till you look, as an Irish sailor remarks, with a grin, "like a pound o' buther rowled up in an owld newspaper." The coast line alternates between vast cliffs of burning sand stone, without a single tuft of green to break the monotony of their gauntand hideons desolation, and gray, unending wastes, over which a film of intense heat hangs quivering like the reek of a furnace.

Looking at these bare rocks and frowning precipices and parched, waterless gullies, one sees at a glance how the Arab became what he now is, and what he has always been since his-tory first knew him. Habituated to toil and privation, to thurst and hunger, to long marches over the dreariest wastes on earth, to the cease less raids and deadly battles of the fierce guer-rillas around him, he was already a trained sol-dier when the coming of Mohammed let loose his cier when the coming of Mohammed let loose his restless energies for the conquest of the whole civilized world. Little chence, in truth, had the luxurious Greeks of the eastern empire, or the effeminate nations of southern Europe, against men who could come fresh into battle at sunrise after riding all night, and could secur the desert for days upon a few handfuls of dates and parched corn. The dried fruit and camel's hair cloaks heat the Greek of dates and parched corn. The dried fruit and camel's hair cloaks beat the Greek wines and embroidered tunics, just as the half-raw beef and horsellesh of Cdoacer's brawny Goths overmatched the lampreys and nightingales' tongues of degenerate Rome. It was only when the stern, simple, temperate fanatic of the seventh century had sunk into the indolent, silk-attired, opium-smoking voluptuary of the seventeenth that the once formidable crescent began to wane from a terror to a scoff. Well, indeed, spoke Prior on this head, in words whose grotesque hnmor masks one of the deepest historical truths ever uttered: truths ever uttered:

ns ever uttered:
"Was ever Tartar fierce and cruel
Upon the strength of water gruel?
But who shall stand his rage and force
If first he rides then eats his horse?
Salad and eggs and lighter fare
Tune the Italian spark's guitar.
And if I take Dan Congreve right, Pudding and beef makes Britons light."

Suddenly, just as the famous strait and the cliffs of its sentinel islet come into view right ahead of us, a shout from one of our crew draws all eyes to a blackish-yellow mass which is floating past our starboard quarter. At first sight it might easily have been mistaken for a drifting bunch of seaweed; but a second glance reveals the round shining back, flat head and broad fan-shaped "flippers" of a sedate old turtle, who is "paddling his own canoe" to-ward the Arabian shore. But whatever Nem-esis may await him hereafter in the form of soups and steaks, he is safe from all molestation for the present; and the sly side glance of his small cunning eye as he passes us seems to intimate that he is quite aware of the fact. Following this living ironclad with our eyes, we suddenly catch sight of what looks like a broad patch of white foam, strongly outlined against the deep blue of the sea, and undulaagainst the deep blue of the sea, and undulating ceaselessly with quick, irregular motion, like a table cloth vigorously shaken out. Up go all our glasses at once, and instantly the seeming foam resolves itself into an immense flock of white seabirds, hard at work upon their morning's fishing, and to all appearances making quite a "big thing" of it. Fee and wide, the sea is alive with flapping wings and bouncing beaks, swooping, diving, seizing, shooting up again, and then replunging intantaneously.

But while we have been watching these industrious "toilers of the sea," the steamer has teen rapidly approaching the entrance of the strait, and the isle of Perin has gradually de-veloped itself from the huge shadowy likeness of a monster sword fish into a small dark gray barren rock inlet, three miles in length by latrica rock inlet, three miles in length by a little less than two in breadth and 200 feet above the sea at the highest point.

Not a living thing is to be seed, not a sound of life to be heard upon the bare, stony ridge, unrelieved by a single speek of verdure, and checkered only by the two narrow white foot paths that meander like veins of the dark hillside. From its summit a low massive gray. paths that meander like veins of the dark hill-side. From its summit a low, massive gray wall, surmounted by the round white tower of a lighthouse and flanked on one side by a clus-ter of tumble-down Arab hovels, looks sullen-ly down upon us beneath the blistering glare of the tropical sun, through the narrow, cun-ning eyes of its countless loop-holes. But this solitary token of man's presence only intensi-fies the nevalent sense of everwheleing descsolitary token of man's presence only inventifies the prevalent sense of overwhelming desolation, which even the bright hue and jaunty flutter of the British union jack the waves from the peak of a tall white most and of the gate, cannot lessen as whit.

Cure of Pleurisy.

90 MAIN STREET, GLOUCESTER, MASS., April 16, 1885.

Allcock's Porous Plasters have been used in our family for the last three or four years with very beneficial results. Previous to that time I had been subject to attacks of a severe pain in my left side. Hot cloths add liniments afforded temporary relief, but after a while the pain always returned. In the fall of 1880, after a very severe attack, I was advised by a friend to try an Allcock's Porous Plaster on my side which greatly benefitted me. After that I tried several kinds of plasters to see which was the best, and finally decided that Allcock's suited my case the best. I have worn them constantly on my side ever since, and have never been troubled with the pain, except when I left them off for a few days. We alway keep a supply in the house, and whenever pain seizes any of us, in any part of the body we just apply an Allcock's Plasters and can most heartily recommend them.

A New Formula for Consumption.

We are in receipt of a number of communications on a topic which just now seems to be receiving the attention of a great many persons. It is the question of the treatment of consumption, and all kindred diseases, without drugs. Many years ago, in France, it was decided by the leading physicians that nothing was equal to beef as an article of diet in consumption and all ailments which tend to its development. This is now a generally-admitted fact. Much difficulty, however, has been experienced in the promulgation of this truth, from the fact that many stomachs cannot digest it. The indigestible quality of all cod-liver oil having led to its being abandoned in medical treatment. It was found that blood taken from an animal just killed, if swallowed, produced marvelous beneficial effects. This found favor with few, however, but the idea has been put into practical operation, and there are in all norts of the world today hospitals devoted to the cure of consumption and kindred diseases, where beef combined with alcohol, in some form, is the chief article of food. Efforts have been made by those interested to keep this simple remedy from the masses, partly from form, is the chief article of food. Efforts have been made by those interested to keep this simple remedy from the masses, partly from selfish motives, but quite as much from the fact that the wonderful benefits to be received would be doubted by many if they knew, in advance, what constituted the cure. Another reason was, that its efficacy depends on the presence of spirits free from adulterations and fusel oil. In the past it has been an article difficult to procure. Now, however, it can be obtained, and the communications we have referred to are from parties who are using a formula of this kind received from the Duffy Malt Whisky Co. of Baltimore, Md. The formula, which was prepared specially for Buby Mait whisky Co. of Baltimore, Md. The formula, which was prepared specially for them by an eminent German scientist, consists principally of raw beefsteak, and ingredients which any housekeeper can get and mix, combined with their pure malt whisky, which will, if regularly used, add on an average 10 pounds in a month to the weight. On the receipt of a two-cent stamp, the formula age 10 rounds in a month to the weight. On the receipt of a two-cent stamp, the formula will le sent, to all parties-using their whisky, under the seal of the company. From the abundance of testimony there can be no question as to its value. This method of treatment is in accordance with the views of the two recognized leading medical authorities of this country. Professor Austin Flint, professo, of principles and practice of medicine, Bellevue hospital college, New York, on the treatment of consumption, and Professor H. C. Weod, professor of therapeutics, university of Pennsylvania, on the special action of all remedial agencies on the system. The all remedial agencies on the system. The company has received so many inquiries con-cerning this formula and its fitness for the many diseases which, if neglected, end in consumption that they have found it necessary to add a medical staff to their other facilities, which staff they place at the disposal of their patrons free of charge for consulta-

THE CONSTITUTION, TELEGRAMS, AND MAKE

ATLANTA, GA., JANUARY 21, 1886. Indications for the South Atlantic States, taken at 1 o'clock a. m .: Warmer, cloudy weather and local rains; winds shifting to southerly and during Friday to westerly. East Gulf States: Colder, fair weather, preceded by light local rains; winds generally shifting to northwesterly. THE queen's speech, to be delivered today, it is foretold will show that the government intends the renewal of repressive measures for Ireland, and will indicate that there is a bitter struggle ahead. THE strikers in the Pennsylvania mines are increasing in number and growing more violent in temper. The trouble is principally fomented by Hungarians, who have no idea of submitting to the law. THE silver ring is still heard in the senate. The speakers heretofore have been advocates of the continued coinage of silver. Yesterday, however, Senator Morrill varied

THE winter wheat plant in Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, Kentucky, Missouri, Kansas and Maryland has been examined, and the testimony is to the effect that very little damage will result from the extreme weather of the past ten days. The plant was covered with snow in all the states mentioned, and the blizzards could not reach it except in a few localities.

The President and the Senate. The conflict between the president and the senate is a very simple matter and will be settled in a very simple way. There are senators, of course, who believe that the senate is a much more powerful affair than the executive, and who are of the opinion that a simple resolution passed by that body ought to be incorporated into the statute books at once, without waiting for the consent of the house of representatives or that of the president. But these men do not control the senate, and their views are not important.

There was a similar conflict between the senate and the executive when Andrew Johnson was president, but, at that time, the senate was not the senate in any serious sense, but merely the gathering-place of a parcel of red-eyed radicals who were determined to punish the southern people for having convictions of their own on any subject. Today there' is a different senate and a different president, and in a contest such as has been mapped out by men like Morrill, of Vermont, the president has everything to gain and the senate everything to lose. sting to observe that the or -that is to say, the organs of the Blaine string-are all at once taking a novel view of removals. The New York Tribune, for instance, with a tremendous stretch of consistency that is supposed to cover vast acres of sin, declares that unless the president gives the senate his reasons for removing the republican rascals, these rascals will stand before the country with their characters blackened, and all sorts of queer-looking stains on their pinafores. It is a little singular that when General Garfield came into office and proceeded to remove republicens right and left in order to make room for his own personal henchmen nothing was said in regard to the blackened characters of the unfortunates who were removed.

There is no real contest between the president and the senate, but the more radical republican senators seem determined to force one, if only for the purpose of keeping the grand old party together during the few remaining months that it has to live. The issue that has been set up will be ignored by the president, and that will be the end of the matter.

The point made in the senate is that that body has the right to demand why the execntive has seen proper to make certain removals. As a matter of fact the senate has nothing whatever to do with removals. These are wholly within the discretion of the president. He does not make removals by and with the consent of the senate, and that body has nothing whatever to do with the reasons that have prompted the removals. He removes officials "for cause, and that is the end of the matter. The senate has no power of revision or reinstatement, so far as removals are concerned. The president can make removals at his pleasure, and the senate can reject nominations at its pleasure, and neither one has the right to ask the other for the "reasons" that have governed in the matter. The president can make a removal without asking the advice or consent of the senate, and the senate can refuse to confirm the appointment of a successor, but it cannot reinstate the removed official.

Since the foundation of the government the encroachments of the senate on the prerogatives of the president have been steady. That body has never lost an opportunity to arrogate to itself powers that do not belong to it, and it is to be hoped that the president will stand firm in this matter. A halt once called means a halt forever.

The Irish Problem. The political situation in England grows daily more confused and uncertain. Ireland wants an Irish parliament, and yet is not willing to withdraw altogether from the im-perial parliament. Neither England nor Scotland will go beyond home rule for Ire- of it.

land. British unity must be preserved : this is the prevailing sentiment beyond question, and this sentiment is operating to strengthen the Salisbury government, and darken the fond hopes of the Irish people. If Mr. Gladstone should attempt, with the aid of the Parnellites, to upset the cabinet, parliament, and go to the people on the issue that separation means disruption and downfall of the empire. Such an issue is not coveted by the liberals, and the chances of a continuance of conservative rule are for that reason much better than they were three months ago.

Just what policy the conservatives will adopt in the meanwhile remains to be seen. It is reported that they will try a course of repression of the severest sort. If they do. there will be turbulence and trouble in all parts of Ireland, and steps will also be taken to show, by undisputable evidence, how false the tories are in the light of their preelection promises. The country is anxious to know on what terms the tories secured the Irish vote, and if Lord Salisbury fails to keep the promises made on his behalf, the country stands a good chance to know just what Lord Randolph Churchill promised to do for the Irish people. The situation is altogether interesting and lively. The Irish problem will not "down" at any one's bidding, and all England is disturbed by its changing phases. In Ireland very little rentpaying is going on.

A Sensible Craze.

It is an apparent contradiction in terms to speak of a sensible craze, but the immense popularity of health and strength just at present will make such a phrase permiss-

For generations it has been the proper thing in the best society for the women to be pale and languid wrecks, while the men were expected to display pipe-stem legs, skinny hands, gooseberry eyes, low foreheads and weak-looking faces. This fashion has been carried to such a dangerous extreme that good health and a sunbrowned face have been known to bar otherwise eligible persons out of society.

All this is a thing of the past. The reaction has come. In our large cities the health, strength and superb physical development of the women who make the sidewalks ring under their firm treat cannot escape notice. They are real flesh and blood women, with alarming appetites and with an almost unlimited capacity for endurance. The men lag behind, but they are catching up. The dudes are in a state of decay. The fashionable man of today wears comfortable clothes and sensible shoes. He is temperate, takes care of himself and enjoys life.

It should not be forgotten that these re sults have been to a great extent brought about by the growing popularity of athletic sports. Ladies and gentlemen everywhere engage in or patronize open air amusements requiring strength and skill on the part of those who participate in them. These sports should not be sweepingly condemned by the moralist and the economist. They are developing round bodies and bright minds. If they serve no other purpose than to make good health fashionable, their value cannot be estimated. Let the athletic business go on. The hunters, lawn tennis players, baseball men, tobogganers, oarsmen, and boxers deserve our gratitude. They have turned a nation of dudes and dudines into a nation of men and women.

The Panama Canal.

M. de Lesseps will sail on the 28th of this month for Panama, accompanied by an engineer selected by the French government. and by well known representatives of the various European countries. They go to study the situation-to see how much has been accomplished, and how much it will cost to complete the canal.

No doubt M. de Lesseps has made some mistakes; but mistakes in such a gigantic ork almost under the equator cor well have been avoided. The great French manager probably did not fully understand the nature of the climate at Panama. It kills all but the acclimated unless extra precautions are taken. The hospitals are crowded. and the mortality frightful. The management of the Chagres river in flood time is still an unsolved problem, and a good deal of money was wasted in the earlier stages of the organization.

But none of these mistakes are fatal. None of them point to a failure of the scheme, or even to the overthrow of M. de Lesseps The indefatigable builder of ship canals de clares he will on the last day of 1888 sail through a completed canal at Panama. If the engineer of the French government and the delegates who accompany him do not find facts that show the work is beyond human resources and skill, we may safely trust de Lesseps to make his declaration good. He certainly has confidence that the approaching investigation will disclose no facts to his discredit. He goes out with them next week, and the statements that will shortly follow are expected to induce the French people, if not the French government, to give the enterprise the additional aid that it sorely needs just at present.

ONE of the most remarkable men in the present parliament is Joseph Arch. Fifteen years ago Arch was a common farm laborer supporting himself and family on four dollars week. His wife could read and write when he married her and she taught him all she knew. After learning to read, Arch spent his nights reading everything he could get hold of. He began organizing labor unions among the farmers and speaking to them. This made him disliked by the landlords, and it was a difficult matter for him to get work. Last summer the new franchise bill made voters of 800,000 tenant farmers, and Arch, for the first time, found himself a free-man. With plucky audacity audacity this newly emancipated s erf stood for parliament, and was elected over the great tory magnate, Lord Henry Bentinck. The country may not be benefitted by the change, but it shows that even in England the people sometimes have their way. An angry Chicago paper wants the Wall street speculators to run and hide their gold, so that the malicious silver men can't get hold

THERE is nothing like being accommodating. When Mrs. Ingham found Mrs. Black swallowing a dose of poison, at Cleveland, Ohio, her first impulse was to make the fact known at once. Mrs. Black, however, prevailed on her to wait and see if the poison had any effect. She waited and in a few moments she was reaid of the Parnellites, to upset the cabinet, it is plain ford Salisbury would dissolve field. Instead of foolishly raising a racket she kept her own counsel for two weeks, and then casually told Mrs. Black's husband about it. Mrs. Ingham's rare delicacy excites much comment.

SOMEBODY is engaged in the work of rehabilitating Aaron Burr. The task has been tried before. Jere Clemens, of Alabama, wrote a novel in which he pictured Burr as almost a saint, and showed up Hamilton in pretty black colors. Parton's biography also presents Burr in a good light. After all, there was so much bitter prejudice against this man in his own day, that he may not have been fairly judged. His alleged treason consisted merely in planning the seizure of Mexico. Such a design in this age would be considered a daring project, but it would not be held treasonable. Burr's morals were doubtless bad enough, but he had the vices of his generation. For that matter his vices seem to have had a pretty steady run among gentlemen ever since the creation. Placed in our modern society, he would compare favorably enough with many respectable

A NEW YORK preacher has been discussing 'moral bacteria." He says that microbes of wickedness invade human nature and demoralize it. The preacher goes on to say that as Pasteur drives out his material bacteria by the infusion of an opposing force, so we must get rid of the moral bacteria by inoculating our selves with love, purity and sobriety. There is nothing very new in all this. It merely shows how an old idea may be wrapped up in argon and the technicalities of science.

Some of the finest ruins in the world are in Yucatan. A letter giving an account of some recent explorations in that country, says:
Shortly afterwards they came upon a crumbling temple, on hearly every stone of which were carved birds, beasts, snakes, idols and men. The interior was veined with vault-like passages, the air of which was'chill and heavy with the damp of ages. A halfruined wall, beantifully carved as the temple, surrounded the place. The explorers found more ruins than they even expected. Nearly every day brought to light some new work that looked as though it had been reared before Cleopatra's Needile had an inscription upon it. Palaces standing high far up on steep hills and covered with vines and mold grew common. The discovery of hideous stone gods, with age-worn features and a diabolical expression became a common occurrence. One day, after the recent explorations in that country, says: with age-worn features and a diabolical expression became a common occurrence. One day, after the party had nearly exhausted itself in wandering through a huge building that might have been any-thing from the palace of a king to a citadel, a pecu-liar mound of earth near a portion of the building which contained on its wall a number of unintelli-gible hieroglyphics, attracted attention. The ser-vants dug into the mound and uncarthed a stone image on a solid stone base. It was very heavy and gible hieroglyphics, attracted attention. The servants dug into the mound and uncarthed a stone image on a solid stone base. It was very heavy and was only raised out of the grave in which it had lain for centuries by great labor. Among the other objects of interest seen were a number of upright masses of stone resembling somewhat the tomb of Hiram. Some of these bore inscriptions. Photographs were taken of everything that smacked of antiquity. The photographs are admirably executed. They plainly show carvings of quaint heads and misshapen bodies, curious animals and birds and serpents indulging in wonderful and intricate contortions. A circular block of stone about four feet in diameter and eighteen inches wide, and with a large round hole in the center, looksas though it might have been used as one of the wheels of a juggernaut. Its sides are beautifully carved. One of the views taken embraces a large sweep of the country. In the foreground the crumbling walls of a huge ruin are seen, in the distance in a small, silvery sheet of water, while all around the country looks as though it had been sweep by a fierce fire. Not a living thing is seen.

Should Kisses be Fair on the Stage?

Should Kisses be Fair on the Stage?

From the Philadelphia News.

Here is a simple question in sentiment: Can actors and actresses kiss each other in mimic love without danger of heart hurt? We used to be told that stage kissing was counterfeit, and perhaps most of it was and still is, but there has lately grown into usage, at least here in New York, a palpably genuine kind of osculation in comic opera and burlesquo. It began in "Nanon," where the pretty Sadie Martinot smacked the handsome William T. Carleton in all actuality and fervor right on the lips four times per evening. It was done so close to the footlights and so deliberately that no room was left for doubt. The story was told that he disliked it and they quarreled, but she deemed the thing essential to the prosperity of her role and got the management to sustain her in it, though she hated the man she kissed.

Carleton is now traveling, and Clara Wisdom who has been in the chorus here, kisses him quite as heartily as Miss Martinot did in the same character. There is a deal of cooing and kissing between Nanki-Poo and Yum-Yum in the Mikado. Behind the scenes of the two theaters in which the opera has been running I was amused to find persons deeply and unconcealedly interested in those particular episodes of the piece. In one instance it was Jefferson Bernstein, the new husband of Verona Jarbeau, who eye-witnessed every hug and salutation which his wedded Yum-Yum received from her Nanki-Poo. In the other case, the admired of maidens, Courtice Pounds, was the stage lover, and his Japanese bride was the fair Geraldine Ulmar. Their kisses were on cheeks and chins, never bringing their mouths together.

"They do it in excellent taste," I remarked.

"With admirable discretion," assented a member of the company. "Do you see the smallish, pretty woman in the chorus youder in green? She is not requisite on the stage just now, and her companions of the chorus are in the green-room. She is smillingly watching the love passage between Nanki-Yoo rom the Philadelphia News. ing her studies. Miss Katherine was the flower of these daughters, a brilliant, clever and accomplished girl, whose latest sayings and doings were always quoted. She was well read, gay, humorous and witty, and her spirit and repartee made her famous as a conversationalist. She was a fearless-rider, and at hunts and riding parties would dare any leap and put her horse at anything; while her coolness and presence of mind were equal to any emergency. When unscated by a victoas horse last all, and her foot caught in the stirrup, she held on by the penamel and the horse's mane, while it ran for a half mile before overtaken.

As the eldest daughter of her invalid mother, she had all the charge and responsibility of the family, and her younger sisters had a blind, passionate admiration for her, and all leaned and depended on her. She was the chief companion of her father, and resembled-him in many traits, more than any other of his children. Certain audacious and eccentric things that she did were only the repetition of his own younger course, and Miss Bayard's courage was always quoted. The shoc's and horror of her death are the more terrible in view of heractive part in all that surrounded her, but many recall how she used to say that she "wanted to die like that" (flustrating it with a snap of her nervous fingers.)

Ben Maddox, who for some time carried the nail between the towns of Hillsboro and Whitney Texas, is the possessor of a variagated voice. He asually begins speaking in a very high, asperate voice, and when about half through the sentence falls to a very deep bass, in which he finishes. One day in returning from Whitney his team ran away, threw Ben out in the mud, and turned the light covered hack which he was driving, over on him in such a manner that, although uninjured, he was mable to get from under it. While he was there a tranger came by, when the following conversation took place:
Ben (in his fine voice)—"Hello, mister, will you place git down an' raise this pack up so as I car git out?" Stranger-"Yes, I guess I can, but how did you Stranger—"Yes, I guess I can, but now did you get under there?"

Ben (in his coarse bass voice)—"The horses ran away and turned the back over on me."

Stranger—"Lookee here; if there are two or three of you under there you are able to raise that hack up yourselves, and I am not going to get down in the mud to help you." And away he rode, leaving poor Ben to get out the best way he could.

"That," remarked the query man, "is an easy one to answer. It is because the water freezes and bursts the water-pipes :" "But," said a demi-scientist who sat near, "you tre wrong. Cold contracts. How then can ice Is it not more reasonable to take this view of it. That the ice being frozen fills the pine completely; that the continued cold makes the pipe contract still further and the ice refusing to compressed further the rent in the pipe results?

The query man's lip fell and it was agreed to first submit the problem to a plumber, to then tackle a scientist, and to wind up with Colonel Baum of the

Said the plumber:

"Why, it is the ice, of course. Water expands in freezing. The freeze very often starts at both ends of the pipe and works along toward the middle and when the last water is frozen something has to give way. Many people think it is the thaw that breaks the pipe, but that is not so. A man told me several days ago that his pipes were all right then, but he did not know what the effect would be when the thaw came. The truth is the burst occurs a soon as the freeze takes place, but the effect cannot be seen until the ice begins to thaw." "But," was asked, "is it not true that it is the pe contracting around the solid piece of ice that

'Yes, cold contracts everything. A solid block iron will grow smaller under the influence of cold, and the hole in an iron pipe will grow smallabout iron. It yields some under the pressure o freezing ice. That, I understand, has been demon strated by experiment, but when the final moment comes and the last water freezes
It is done, so quickly that the expansion bursts the pipe at once. Ice flows in the direction from which there is the least re sistance. A part of a pipe may freeze and the pipe not burst. The iron pipe, which gives somewhat under the pressure, will resume its original size when the ice melts. Lead pipe on the other hand will give but will not go back to its original -size Its destruction is, therefore, only question of time. It is a general impression that water is an exception, and does not contract under the influence of cold. That is not true. It observes the usual law of contraction until it reaches a temperature of about thirty-nine and at thirty-two congeals and reaches its greatest state of expansion. As soon as ice forms, it be-

Chattahoochee river. He says: "A pipe will never burst as long as there is an utlet. I can take a glass bottle and freeze it full of ice and never crack it. I would do that simply by beginning at the bottom to freeze it and being careful not to let a crust of ice form over the top of the water. "Here is an ice-water bottle," said the colonel, holding up a cut glass bottle shaped like a decanter. "I have frozen that full of ice many a time. In Paris the hotels have bottles of water frozen to ice and put a bottle by each plate with just enough room above the ice for one glass of water. The water is poured out as the ice begins to freeze on top and when the last water comes to freeze there is no chance for expansion and something has to break."

"You mean to tell me that if that bottle was full of ice the further contraction of the glass around

I have had some interesting experiments with ce," continued the colonel. "When I was manufacturing ice I had cans three inches thick, eight inches wide and twenty-six inches long to freeze it in. They were made of maleable iron and were perfectly true, so that by simply dipping them in hot water I could slip the fee out. As long as I froze the water from the bottom the cans were all right, but if I ever let the freezing start at the top the cans would be pressed out of shape and would have to be discarded.

"The most interesting experiment that I have een," said the colonel, "was witnessed by me a few days ago in Augusta. It proved that water would not congeal unless it was agitated. The ex-periment was at the Georgia chemical works. In an aquarium where the fish kept the water in motion the ice was three inches thick. In six bottles where the water was perfectly still, there was no ce. A gentleman struck a bottle that was corked up and almost instantly the water became ice and he bottle burst. So on with all six of the bottles,"

The slide struck the shaft and engine houses, completely demolishing them and killing John Rose, a mine carpenter. The engine and boiler were badly damaged. The engineer was thrown under the boiler, which was buried, under ten feet of snow. He was afterwards recovered alive. John Leonard, one of the owners of the Conemara mine, and several other men were near the shaft house but escaped with only a few bruises. At five o'clock the fire bell announced the eccurrence of another slide. This time at Washington mountain. Investigation showed that two drivers, with their mules and wagons, had been buried under fifteen feet of snow near Aquisition mine. Seven men, who started from here this morning for Maroon pass to return at noon, have not since been heard from. It is supposed that they were buried under a third slide, reported to have occurred on the pass at about noon. There was

A FIGHT WITH THE STRIKERS.

PITTSBURG, January 20.—A dispatch from Mount Pleasant tonight states that Sheriff Stewart and forty deputies and Detective Brophy and twenty armed police from Pittsburg had a desperate conflict with 250 strikers this afternoon, and succeeded in arresting thirteen of them. After attacking the men at 'the Alice works in the morning, the rioters rested for dinner. Then they massed at the Mutual works, near morning, the rioters rested for diliner. Then they massed at the Mutual works, near Stoneville. At this point, a negro, without provocation, fired at the Hungarians with a shotgun, but failed to hit any of them. They surrounded his house, dragged the negro out, beat kim fearfully, and left him dying with his skull fractured. At three o'clock the strikers passed up toward Moorewood, flourishing every waying of wearons from revolvers. ing every manner of weapons, from revolvers to case scrapers. They were headed by Stefen Stannix, the main agitator of the strike. When they reached shaft 2 of the Moorewood mines they encountered sixty-two deputy sheriffs and policemen drawn up for buttle. Detective Brophy talked to the foreigners, telling them it was to the foreigners, telling them it was useless to resist, and that they would arrest the ringleaders. Brophy arrested one striker, which opened the ball. The combat was hand to hand, but the officers won, arresting thirteen men and one woman. All were sent to jail at Greenburg. The other rioters retreated. Over 100 rounds were fired. Several Hungarians were injured, how badly is not known, rians were injured, how badly is not known, as they were carried away by their companion. Only one officer was sightly hurt. In nearly all of the fifteen shops the cigar packers are still at work, finishing up what stock is made up on the tables. In a few they will have finished tonight, and then they will quit work until the difficulty is settled. By tomorrow the packers in all the shops will have joined the ranks of the strikers. The strike extends to the cigar box making trade. When the packers quit work the number on strike will have been swelled to over 10,000. The manufacturers claim that they have sufficient stock made up to fill their orders for several months to come. The packers going out, they said, would not deter them from supplying to their customers in fact, but not packed. President McCoy, of the manufacturers' asso-

From these sources arise three-fourths of the diseases of the human race. These symptoms indicate their existence: Loss of Appetite, Bowels costive, Sich Escadache, fullness after enting, aversion to exertion of body or mind, Eructation of food, Irritability of temper. Low spirits, a feeling of having neglected some duty, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the eyes, highly colored Urine, CONSTIPATION, and domand the use of a remedy that acts directly on the Liver. As all liver medicine TUTT'S PILLS have no equal. Their action on the Kidneys and Skin is also prompt; removing all impurities through these three "scavengers of the system," producing appetite, sound digestion, regular stools, a cieur skin and a vigorous body. TUTT'S PILLS augs no nausea or griping nor interier with daily work and are a perfect ANTIDOTE TO MALARIA.

THE RELIGIOUS CAMPAIGN.

The Georgia Evangelists in Cincinnati—The People Aroused.

CINCINNATI, January 20.—[Special.]—The famous spring freshets in the Ohio river are nothing to be compared to the freshet of religious interest that has been produced here by the preaching of Rev. Sam Jones and Sam Small. The most wonderful features of the matter is that this wide-spread influence is not "a religious sensation," or "religious excitement," as those phrases are generally employed. It is a deeper, broader and stronger feeling that has followed the labors of the now nationally known evangelist and his co-laborfeeling that has followed the labors of the now nationally known evangelist and his co-laborer. Men and women throughout the city who were heretofore complacent in their self-right-cousness have been aroused to their condition, have recognized their delusions, and are carnestly and honestly putting themselves right before men and God. Other men and women hitherto indifferent and inaccessible to religious teachings have been reached and interested, and thousands of them are hastening eagerly to learn the way out of the wilderness into the path of peace and righteousness. This is true of all classes, from the palatially housed people of Walnut Hills to the almost homeless and hopeless habitues of the outlawed dives and districts of the wicked city. city.

A WONDERFUL WORK IN PROGRESS A WONDERFUL WORK IN PROGRESS.

It is now manifest that a great revival season has come upon Cincinnati. Sam Jones and Sam Small are preaching manly doctrines of Christian life, here and hereafter, and are winning for the gospel of the Divine Nazarene a respect, attention and acknowledgement never before commanded by men from men in this before commanded by men from men in this community. Preachers, press and people see that God is in the work and faith is now complete that this work's results cannot be now sufficiently anticipated.

Sunciently anticipated.

ENERGETIC EVANGELISTS.

Sunday Rev. Sani Jones preached three grand sermons, enough in their drafts upon brain and bodily strength to have exhausted most men. His endurance and continuous freshness of thought and speech excite the greatest admiration and praise. Last night be preached again to a tremendous and incree at preached again to a tremendous audience at Trinity, and turned hundreds away in the rain.

Sam Small's work yesterday was particularly effective and sustained with unusual excellence. He preached two strong and pertinent sermons at Trinity at 10:30 a. m. and 2:30 p. m.; led the needay prayer meeting at Y. M. C. A. hall, with a vigorous, practical sermon, and preached at St. -Paul's church, the leading M. E. church of the city, at night. Today he rests partially, having only the Y. M. C. A. meeting to conduct.

Yesterday the afternoon and night meetings were held in Music hall, the use of which was made necessary by the enormous crowds flocking to the services.

Good Farming in Washington.

Mr. N. J. Newsom, near here, made the past year with ten plows 200 bales of cotton aver-aging 450 pounds, or 20 bales to the plow and 2,000 bushels of corn, or 200 bushels to the plow. This was reported to me by his agent.
Mr. Cris. Woodard, also of this county, made with two plows 38 bales of cotton, or 19 bales or another year.

The plow, and plenty of corn to run him B. F. LEONARD. for another year. B. F. LEONAED.

have added a department to your paper that I am confident will prove of great benefit and interest to one class of your subscribers, and that is the sketches of Georgia's progressive farmers. Knowing that you have a large number of readers in our vicinity I am in hopes that a short sketch of a few of Taladega's live farmers will stimulate others

Taladega's live farmers will stimulate others to put on extra energy this coming year. This county, and particularly Taladega valley, has long been celebrated for the fertility of its soil and its romantic and beautiful scenery.

Fifty years and more, however, of almost exculsive cultivation of cotton has sadly exhausted even the best lands, so that the use of fertilizers has become a necessity. Among the first of our progressive men I will mention Mr. E. Ledhetter. He'bought some years ago a farm that was called worn out—full of gullies, overgrown with broomsage and sassafras. It was a discouraging outlook for a young man. Procuring the best of plow, and with three mules to it, he soon filled up the washed places and buried the sassafras and sedge out of sight. His first efforts were successful. I think he has always raised his graiu and meat, while his Jersey cattle, fine hogs, hundreds of sheep and goats, are a guarantee that he needs no advances and can live comfortably at home. Mr. goats, are a guarantee that he needs no advances and can live comfortably at home. Mr. Rily Thompson, a near neighbor, started life with a piece of land that was thought to be poorer than Ledbetter's, and was without buildings of any kind. He, also, raises his grain and meat, and has a fine orchard, vineyard, a good dwelling, a steam gin, grist and sawmill. Dr. I. W. Peacock and Mr. William Gooden, started out pretty much the same wix. swmill. Dr. I. W. Peacock and Mr. William Gooden started out pretty much the same way, with poor land. Their efforts have always been first to have something to eat, and cotton as a surplus, and they have succeeded. I might mention others, such as Dr. Rhodes, J. M. Hancock and Mr. Tom Welch. All these are successful farmers and the true and only secret of their prosperity is they have raised their eatables with their cotton as a surplus. Some of them hire their cotton as a surplus. Some of them hire their laborers by the month, others work on the share system, and a few rent their lands. Their motto is a full barn all the time.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Stocks as Reported at the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, January 20.—There was little interest in stock dealings today. Lackawanna and St. Paul secured the greatest attention. The latter closed & per cent lower, after declining sharply on ral belief that the company would soon issue additional bonds for line extension purposes. Vanderbilts were firm and show little change. Louisville and Nashville has been decidedly weak for several days past, and lost an additional ½ per cent today. Its earnings for the second week in January show a decrease of $73,000. The usual quarterly dividend in Pacific Mail was declared and $716,000 surplus will remain after it is paid. The stock closed unchanged. Sales 359,000 shares

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Produce.

Special to The Constitution.
CHICAGO, January 20—There was a little talk of an export movement and shorts covered freely, unan export movement and shorts covered freely, under which influences wheat ruled stronger throughout the day with the latest trading prices fully 11/20 higher than yesterday. The feeling was very unsettled, however, and at every advance offerings were larger, and the tone was so firm that shorts bought freely, materially assisting the advance. Receipts continue light with shipments a little larger. Beyond this there was nothing to show that the outside situation had in any way changed that the outside situation had in any way changed. There was a brisk shipping demand for corn, and the market made another slight advance. Oats also ruled firmer and a little higher. There was considerable activity again in pork.

the market opening stiff but became easy, declining 15@17%c, rallied again and closed in the afternoon

For three weeks I was under the usual treatment for such diseases without any appreciable benefit. Fi-nally my physician discontinued all other treat-ment and put me exclusively on the use of Guinn's nally my physician discontinued an only in ment and put me exclusively on the use of Guinn's ment and put me exclusively on the use of Guinn's Pioneer Blood Renewer, and in ten days after I began the use of it, with the exception of a little stiffness about my joints, all other symptoms of the disease had passed off, and I now feel entirely well again. I would state that for a number of years I have suffered from occasional attacks of rheumatism and have tried various courses of treatment, but have found nothing that acted so promptly and pleasantly as Guinn's Pioneer Blood Renewer.

MRS. M. S. TUCKER.

Griffin, Ga.

As the above case of Mrs. Tucker was treated by myself, I do most cheerfully certify to the correctness of her statement. I used Guinn's Pioneer Blood Renewer after the ordinary treatment of rheumatism had failed to control the disease.

MEETING OF W. C.T. U. AT 3 P. M. MEETING OF FULTON LODGE 216 F. A. M.

BISHOP OF SAVANNAH.—It is rumored that Father Kirsch, of the church of the Immacuf late Conception, has been named as bishop o Savannah. The rumor seems to have considerable foundation, but the facts are not known yet. It is known that his name was the first presented. The facts will be known in a few

FROM RABUN COUNTY. — Revenue Agent Colquitt, assisted by several revenue officials, made a raid near Rabun Gap Junction Monday night, and after destroying a still, arrested Norwood Rudisill and John T. Rhodes, the party decamped for Gainesville, where Com-missioner Gaston examined them and they were bound over.

A HANDSOME OIL PAINTING-Miss Daisy A HANDSOME OIL PAINTING—MISS Daisy Merrill, the accomplished young sister of Mrs. Harry Scott, on Jackson street, has just completed a beautiful oil painting which shows great talent with the brush. Miss Merrill has never attended an art school and the painting is the prompting of natural ability. The painting is now on exhibition at Frank Loster's book store.

ROSCOE WILL NOT SPEAK .- Mr. Julius L. Brown returned from Washington yesterday. He was questioned with reference to the rumor published in The Constitution to the effect that he had gone north to secure the services of Roscoe Conkling to argue the case of the Atlanta liquor dealers in the supreme court of the United States. He said that there was no trnth whatever in the rumor.

HE GOT FIFTEEN DOLLARS.-Night before last a burglar entered F. H. Murphy's residence on Pine street near Marietta and stole a purse containing about fifteen dollars in money and some valuable papers. The thief entered the residence at a kitchen doorwhich opened with a skeleton key. The purse was taken from the mantle where Mr. Murphy left it Tuesday night when he retired. Detectives are now working on the case.

Mr. McMahon's Condition.—The condition of Mr. James McMahon is not materially changed, and his friends continue to feel very anxious in consequence. He has been removed to St. Joseph's infirmary, where it is more quiet, and it is thought that the change will work advantageously to him. His many friends are constantly making inquiries as to his condition. It is to be hoped that a change or the better is not far off.

THE LIQUOR DEALERS.—One hundred and four liquor dealers have registered with the ordinary to do business in this county. This is nearly one-half less than had registered at this time last year. Liquor dealers who fail to register, and continue business without registering, are guilty of a misdemeanor and are subject to indictment in the state court, and if convicted are subject to a figure not to exceed convicted are subject to a fine not to exceed $1,000 or imprisonment not to exceed six

ANOTHER STEAMER WANTED .- Tax pavers ANOTHER STEAMER WANTED.—Tax payors residing in the rear of the first ward are beginning to clamor for a fire company in that part of the city. No. 1 engine is the nearest fire company to that portion of the city, and after an alarm is turned in ittakes the department much longer to render the desired relief than it would were there a company further out. Several of the leading citizens are now contemplating a petition to the city conteil. contemplating a petition to the city council for a steamer to be located near the corner of Peters and Fair streets.

AN ABUNDANCE OF LIP.-Yesterday morning Josh Howard and Frank Norris, two negro bootblacks, fell out in front of the National hotel and fought. Norris struck Howard on hotel and fought. Norris struck Howard on the head with a stone. The stone glanced off and did no harm. Howard made a rush for Norris, and gathering him in his arms caught his lip between his teeth and began chewing. Norris's yells brought Captain Crim to his rescue and both darkies were conducted to police headquarters. Norris's lip was terribly lacerated, so much so in fact that a physician had to be sent for. Dr Van Goidstawayer rendered to be sent for. Dr. Van Goidtsnoven rendered WANTS DAMAGES .- James Maynard vestor WANTS DAMAGES.—James Maynard yesterday, entered suit against the Georgia Pacific railroad for $5,000 personal damages. Maynard claims that he was employed by said read as a train hand, to load and unload its cars, to shovel dirt and do such other duties of that nature. While performing that work, without fault or negligence on his part, he was badly hurt by having his right wrist terribly broken and mashed to a july causing he was badly hurt by having his right wrist terribly broken and mashed to a jelly, causing intense suffering of mind and body. He believes his injuries permanent, and that his sufferings will be permanent. He is twenty-two years old, and received for his annual services $360. His nursing, medicine and doctor's bills increased the expense.

More Light to be Given.—"Atlanta wants more light after dark than she has now, and she shall have it," said Mr. Rice of the gas committee yesterday. Mr. Rice speaks the truth. If Atlanta has ever had a councilman at the head of the lamp and gas work that has taken a pride in illumination. the head of the lamp and gas work that has taken a pride in illuminating the city that gentleman is Mr. Rice. He has given the question hard study and before the year is out will have increased the number of electric lights by a dozen or more. He has never been an advocate of the gasoline lamps and is working hard just now to remove these lamps and substitute gas for them. Mr. Rice will attempt to erect enough electric lights in the heart of the city to make it bright as day. the city to make it bright as day.

THE NEW DIRECTORY.—The new city directory for Atlanta is out and being distributed. The publisher, Mr. C. F. Weatherbe, announces that there are 21,000 names in the directory and that if one name represents three souls in the population, Atlanta has apparently 60,000 people. The book is not as large as the one issued last year. The first name in the directory is Henry M. Abbett, treasurer of the Atlanta and West Point railroad, and the last name is Frank Zurling, a carpenter for H. M. Beutill. There are twenty-two names commencing with "Z," and half of the number are "Zachreys." There are no names in the directory commencing with the letter "X." There are three pages of "Smiths" and four pages of "Jones" with the usual number of "Browns" and Johnsons." THE NEW DIRECTORY .- The new city di-

THE NEW COUNCIL CHAMBER.—Mayor Hillyer is strongly in favor of removing the council chamber from the ground floor of the chamber of commerce building to the top floor. Nearly every city officer and probably a majority of general council concur with him. As it is now the noise made by wagons on the paved streets about the building is quite annoying during the sessions of the council, whereas if the council chamber were on the top floor it would be too remote from the street to be bothered by the noise. In event the chamber is moved the present chamber will be divided into four offices. There is now a scarcity offices. The commissioner of public works has none. The city attorney has an office away from the building, as also have water commissioners.

BURGLARS BAGGED.

A BIRMINGHAM QUARTETTE WORK A WIDOW FOR $400.

They Come to Atlanta With the Money and Valuables -A Detective Follows Them and They Are Arrested-How Two Desperate Negro Men Broke Into a House, Etc., Etc.

John Dorsey, Bradford Dorsey, Della Dorsey and Bella Minion, four Birmingham burglars, were arrested in Atlanta yesterday. Together with Morgan Thomas, the qual tette will be carried back to Birmingham to-

Saturday night last John and Bradford Dorsey burglarized a house in Birmingham and got away with something over four hundred dollars iu money and a lot of jewelry and silverware. The two women assisted the men to conceal the money and jewelry and thereby became implicated in the crime.

The burglary was one of the boldest and most desperate on record.

WHO THEY ROBBED. The negroes' victim was a widow lady, a Mrs. Loyd. Mrs. Loyd is running a store in Birmingham. She lives in the rear of the build-ing, and when not asleep or at her meals, pass-es her time in the store. By close application to business, Mrs. Loyd managed to accumulate nearly five hundred dollars. This, she kept securely locked in a largestrong trunk, which securely locked in a largestrong trunk, which she kept in her bedroom. When attending the store, Mrs. Loyd always had the rear portion of the house securely fastened.

In some way the Dorsey negroes ascertained that the lady was in the habit of keeping her money and jewelry in the trunk. They also knew Saturday night was an unusually busy one with Mrs. Loyd, and they decided to take advantage of it and rob her. Saturday night about eight o'clock, when Mrs. Loyd was very busy.

THE DARKIES APPROACHED HER HOUSE rom an alley in the rear. When near the house one of the negroes placed himself where he could see any one approach, and with a pistel in hand remained on guard. The other pistel in hand remained on guard. The other darkey went up to a rear window, and opening the blind, broke out a window glass. He then shoved his hand through the opening and unlatching the window raised it, the negro crawled through the window and closing the blinds behind him began searching the house. He finally came to the trunk, but in attempting to take it out of the house found a door locked and the large graph. and the key gone. Dorsey went back to the window and calling his brother asked for a hatchet which they had brought with them. With the hatchet

HE PRIZED THE DOOR OPEN and then the two darkeys carried the trank across an alley into a vacant house. Here they cut the trunk lock, and, opening the they cut the trunk lock, and, opening the trunk, took out something over four hundred dollars in money, and considerable jewelry and silverware. The negroes were evidently in a hurry, for they took offly what they found on top and left a lot of fine jewelry in the bottom of the trunk. After securing the money the Dorsey boys went to their home, where they placed the money in a satchel. They then gave the jewelry and silverware to the two women, and began preparing for a departure from Einningham.

Late Saturday night Mrs. Loyd ascertained that she had had been robbed of nearly everything she had managed to save from business. She gave the alarm at once and in the hands of Detective Horne, a bright young hard worker. The darkies had covered their tracks quite cleverly, and when Detective Horne took the case in hand he found it a stubborn one. He went over the ground several times and then started out to work. Early, Sanday, warning, when he to work. Early Sanday morning when he was looking about the passenger depot, De-tective Horne saw one of the Dorsey negroes enter the train for Atlanta. In a short time the other one came up and went into the same car, but came out in a short time. Soon after this the train left, and later in the day the de-tective ascertained that Dorsey had come to tective ascertained that Dorsey had come to the depot in a hack, bringing with him

THE CASE WAS PLACED

A NEW TRUNK and that he gave the driver a liberal pay. This aroused the detective's suspicion and he at once directed his steps toward the Dorsey house. By creeping close to the wall he heard and saw enough to convince him that he was on the right track. He also on the right track. He also ascertained that the two women and the other Dorsey were coming to Atlanta. Detective Horne decided to follow them, and by so doing he succeeded in arresting the entire gang. On Sunday the darkey who had the satchel of money reached Atlanta and that night Captain Crim dropped on him. On Monday the other three arrived and in a short while Detective Horne came in. He went direct to police headquarters, and stating the case to Chief Connolly, asked for help. The chief in-structed Detectives Bedford and Steerman to assist Detective Horne. By Tuesday morning they had one man and

and Tuesday they were arrested. The other darkey, however, could not be found. About darkey, however, could not be found. About 2 o'clock yesterday morning Detectives Bedford and Steerman succeeded in locating the missing darkey at a negro ball, in the rear of the fifth ward. Together with Detectives Horne and Green, they went to the house. The house was surrounded and Detective Bedford went in. He succeeded in finding the man, and walked up to him, saying;

"What's your name?"
"Dorsey," was the answer.
"Well, I want you," said the detective.
"Oh, don't be so, fast," said Dorsey, as he drew a large open knife.
"Don't you be so fast," said the detective, as

"Don't you be so fast," said the detective, as he threw a pistol in Dorsey's face.

Detective Steerman entered the building just at that instant, and Dorsey was taken to police headquarters and locked up.

Two hundred and eighteen dollars were recovered by the detectives, together with the silverway and some involver.

Morgan Thomas, an Atlanta negro, was also arrested, because he attempted to conceal the BROWN GETS OUT.

An Important Decision that Lets a Moonshiner Out of Jail.

At the June term, 1885, of the United States district court for the northern district of Geordistrict court for the northern district of Georgia, John A. Brown, of Campbell county, was arraigned on a criminal information, charging him with distilling and working in an illicit distillery. He pleaded guilty, and being an old offender, was sentenced by Judge Emory Speer to two years at Albany. At the same term of the court Richard Morris was also tried on the same charges, and being found guilty, was sentenced by Judge Speer to one year.

After the sentences which were write.

After the sentences—which were quite a surprise to the defendants and their counsel— After the sentences—which were quite a surprise to the defendants and their counsel—a writ of habeas corpus was sued out in each case, returnable before the district judge in Utica, N. Y. It was alleged that the court here had no jurisdiction to sentence the parties to a penitentiary for any term either with or without hard labor, except upon indictment properly found. Messrs. A. B. Culberson and G. Thomas Osborne, attorneys for the defendants, after waiting until the expiration of the term of court at which Brown and Morris were tried, so the judge could not change the sentence, forwarded the writs to Mr. Ward Hunt, Jr., of Utica, That gentleman succeeded easily in having the points sustained as to the Morris case, as he had not pleaded guilty, and there was inserted in the form of his sentence the words "hard labor." He has been home for several months. In the case of Brown it was more difficult as the decision of the court would be very wide spreading in its effects, as the majority of the violators of internal revenue laws are tried by information instead of indictment. If his writ was sustained all others confined in penitentiaries throughout the United States would also have the right to apply for release. The case of Brown was argued last week before the district judge of out the United States would also have the right to apply for release. The case of Brown was argued last week before the district judge of Utica, and upon his request was reargued yes-terday before him and the circuit judge. Yes-terday Messrs. Culberson & Osborn received a telegram from Mr. Hunt that a writ of release had issued and Brown will come home.

BASEBALL.

What Is Being Done by the League Clubs-The Chicagos Coming. The management of the Atlanta club is bending every effort to furnish the public with the finest ball playing ever witnessed in with the south.

Every day brings additional facts showing that the management is heartily enthused upon this line, among them, proposed improvements to the grounds, grand stands and in the material that is to occupy the diamond.

The right field fence has been moved out minety feet, and if the Chicago club gets a ball over Nick Bradley, who will hold that field for Atlanta, their nine will have to in the ball higher and hit it harder than was done on its visit last spring. By the way, the Chicagos will be here in April, but Atlanta will not have Cahill in the box. The left and center fields are being filled and placed in good shape. The roof of the grand stand will be raised about three feet and new wire placed raised about three feet and new wire placed all the way across the front.

The public will be glad to know that the Atlanta street railroad has promised to run the track to the gate. DIAMOND DUST.

Augusta is thinking of signing Dundon. Savannah has released Voss, the pitcher. Hecker wants Atlanta to try Mays asa pitch-

Cleveland, Atlanta's third baseman, has signcharleston has signed Mike Brosnan, who is said to be better than Red Bittman at second

All the clubs are going to try to take the pennant from Atlanta. It is needless to say that Atlanta will stand by her club. Savannah is trying to secure Poorman Moriarity, Serad and Dick Burns, and to thi end has given Morton, their manager, a roving

Monk Cline will do the coaching for Atlanta when the Detroits and Chicagos play here, and this is a sure guarantee that Atlanta will win the game or make the visitors play great

Macon has not yet broken ice and the public s getting impatient because it sees nothing in the Macon papers as to the progress of the club or that any players have been signed. It is said that Macon is preparing to fix Atlanta We shall see.

We shall see.

Augusta has expressed to the Baltimore club $500, the amount paid Kilroy as advance money, and has demanded that Kilroy be returned to them. The Southern league is under the protection of the American association, and Baltimore will be forced to give Kilroy to Augusta.

COLUMBUS WANTS TO COME IN. COLUMBUS WANTS TO COME IN.

MACON, January 20.—[Special.]—President Proudfit has received a number of letters from the Columbus baseball club, which is very anxious to gain admittance into the Southern league. There being, at present, no vacancy it is impossible for them to get in. It is reported that they can raise $6,000 for the purpose of ecuring the position

COLUMBUS, Ga., January 20.—[Special.]—A meeting of the base ball association was held tonight, but no definite action was taken in reference to getting back into the league. THORNTON AND CONLEY.

The Case Still on Trial in the Superior Court -The Evidence.

The Thornton-Conley case will doubtless ome to a close today.

The evidence yesterday developed some startling facts.

Colonel A. L. Harris, when placed on the stand, acknowledged that he had sent a letter to Colonel M. E. Thornton and signed Mr. A. H. Moore's name to it, but he had done this at instructions from the latter gentleman. letter was written on a lotter head of the Franklin & McDonald mining and manufacturing company, and dated at Ophir, Georgia.

Colonel Thornton claimed that it was through this letter that he had made the trade. He had no idea that Colonel Harris had written Colonel Thornton, when placed upon the stand, gave a review of the case from beginning to the present. He thought he had been very badly treated and greatly damaged by Conley and Harris.

Solicitor Howell Glenn opened the argument for Colonel Thornton. He said that the entire matter was fraud, and that the evidence showed it was concected to defraud Colonel Thornton out of his paper and material. The evidence showed this, and there was no getting around it.

Colonel A. A. Manning followed Solicitor
Glenn for Mr. Conley. He said that Mr. Conley had bought the paper and material in good faith from Mr. A. H. Moore, and there could not be any attempt at fraud on his part. Mr.
Manning had not concluded his argument
when court adjourned.

Dr. Fox, who has made as good a commissioner as the city has ever had, will yield to the wishes of his friends and permit his name to go before the city council. Mr. Charner-Hancock, who was a commissioner for a long time, will be a candidate again. Mr. Wheeler Mangum, who has just retired from the council as a reprehas just retired from the council as a representative of the third ward, will be in the race for the place. Captain W. H. Brotherton is also a candidate for the position. These four gentlemen may be said to be fully in the field now, and the friends of each are doing all that can be done to secure the election of his choice. In addition to these gentlemen Captain Dave Wylie's name has been mentioned as well as Wylie's name has been mentioned as well as Major J. H. Mecaslin, Mr. Max Kutz and Mr. E. P. Chamberlin. These gentlemen have not, as far as can be ascertained, given consent for the use of their names in connection with the COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

E. H. THORNTON,

THE CITY COURT. What was Done in This Tribunal of Justice Yesterday.

The city court was engaged yesterday morning in the trial of the case of Jackson Hutchison, colored, against the Union cotton comison colored, against the Union cotton compress company, for personal injuries. Several weeks ago, so the said Hutchison claims, he was severely cut on the wrist with a cotton tie. He said that it was caused by the negligence of the company in not having the ties properly fittled down. The jury, after being out a short time, brought in a verdict, "we find the defendant not guilty." The case of E. N. Broyles, executor of the estate of Mrs. E. N. Broyles, vs. the city of Atlanta, for damages caused by cutting down property on Taylor street, had just begun when court adjourned yesterday afternoon. when court adjourned yesterday afternoon

James O'Neill in Monte Cristo.

After Abbott's opera comes Monte Christo at less grand in its line, and more intensely thrill ng. James O'Nell is scarcely less a favorite than Emma Abbott. He is more magnetic, more pathetic as perfect a type of a romanic hero as the imaginatio could picture. Few actors have united in their person beauty of features, manly figure, nobility o expression, intellectuality of face, faculty of d expression, intellectuality of face, faculty of delineating strong and sweet passions, sonority of __voice__O'Neill has all these, and it explains the great hold that he hastaken everywhere, especially on the feminine portion of his audiences; but men also like and admire him, and this is the strongest proof of his great merit.

The Philadelphia Times says: James O'Neill's portrayal of the count is a finished piece of work. The character is one that calls for a display of true dramatic ability and torce, something that Mr. O'Neill possesses in a high degree, and his performance is satisfactory in every way.

GOOD HOMES WANTED.

An Interview Relative to Gilford Boyd on the "The case of Gilford Boyd, the young white

"The case of Gilford Boyd, the young white boy, convicted of larceny from the house in the superior court, is a very sad one," said a well known young gentleman to a Constitution man last night.

"Where is the boy?" asked the reporter.

"At his home, 37 McAfee street, with his mother. As soon as Judge Clark fined him his mother was notified and paid his fine, which was a very small one, made so from the reculiar circumstances surrounding the case. which was a very small one, made so from the peculiar circumstances surrounding the case. He is not yet eleven years old; His father was killed in Tennessee and his mother is very low with consumption. A faiend and I went to see her this afternoon, and found her very low. She was very much worried about her son and is anxious for some good person to take him and try to make something out of him. He is a bright little fellow, and with proper training I think would make a good and useful man. His mother cannot get up from her bed to watch after him, and besides she has three smaller children. She appears to be a good Christian lady and her son's acts causes her a good deal of sorrow, care and anxiety. There is but one thing to be done and that is to get some one to take the boy."

There is but one thing to be done and that is to get some one to take the boy."

"BIND HIM OUT?"

"Yes. The mother is willing to fix up the papers at any time. I feel that some of the good people of Atlanta will take the matter into consideration and that he will get a good home. The plea made by Solicitor Hill in behalf of the boy was very touching."

"Where is the little negro, Major Jeter?"

"He was turned loose. In that boy the Christian colored people will find something to do. He should be provided with a home."
